Christophe Robin

PARIS

COLORIST - DESIGNED FOR L'ORÉAL PARIS

– autourdechristopherobin——

Christophe Robin (1971 Troyes), at 14 he began his training at Dominique's Hair Salon in Bar-sur-Aube. Watching Dominique work he discovered a real and fascinating profession : colorist.

Two years later, at the Jean-Louis David salon in Troyes, he drew the attention of the franchise training team, and they invited him to work in Paris as an assistant instructor. There, his innate teaching skills allowed him to quickly integrate into the training team, and, one year later, he became the artistic director working alongside of Jean-Louis David – for the development of new coloring techniques.

Christophe was only 19 years old when L'Oréal first asked him to color the models' hair for their advertising campaign. Three campaigns later, and he had earned the trust of the most famous super-models. From that point on Linda, Karen, and Claudia didn't make a move without him.

When 24, Christophe Robin opened his salon. He was the first to open a salon in Paris that was devoted exclusively to the color and care of hair.

DESSANGE

INTERNATIONAL SALON FRANCHISING

The story of Dessange International mirrors that of its founder, Jacques Dessange: a story of passion and of vision. From the first hairdressing salon opened by Jacques Dessange in 1954 emerged Dessange International, which is now active in every aspect of beauty care, operates three chains of salons and sells four ranges of haircare products, cosmetics and make-up.

In 1975, Jacques Dessange pioneered a major trend in the field of hairdressing when he and Michel Cauvin founded the first hairdressing franchising network in France. The foundation of the first hairdressing training academy with Daniel Conte in 1979 sealed the development of the concept in France.

The International network grew dramatically in the 1990s and now accounts for 45% of overall turnover. DESSANGE INTERNATIONAL is present in 38 countries outside France, with 423 salons of which 142 trade under the CAMILLE ALBANE name and 31 under the FREDERIC MORENO name, not to mention 79 beauty institutes.

DRESDEN (Germany)

INTERNATIONALLY ACCLAIMED HAIR STYLIST.

Since its foundation in Freiberg, East Germany, in 1962 a lot has changed in the family company: in the course of over four decades, the original 3-person team around the young Gerd Seidel has expanded continuously to become a highly recognized institution for sophisticated hairstyles and elaborate craftsmanship. Today, 15 employees are committed to maintaining the highest quality standards in the company's salons in Dresden and Freiberg.

A crucial prerequisite for the company's success is its emphasis on education. 150 educated hairdressers, including 20 masters, have been given a head start through their education at Alexander Seidel and some have demonstrated their skills at national and international competitions.
